

PART-TIME INSTRUCTOR OF ELL
Spring and/or Summer 2018 Opportunity

The Academy

The Woodrow Wilson Academy – launched by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation and developed in collaboration with MIT -- seeks to transform the existing model of teacher education by instituting a competency-based program, which shifts the current focus of education from how long candidates must be taught to what they have learned and can do. It changes the emphasis in education from establishing common time-fixed processes—credits that must be accumulated, courses that must be completed and lengths of time students must spend in college classes—to achieving common, time-variable outcomes: the skills and knowledge necessary to be a successful teacher or school leader on day one.

The Academy's competency-based program has three components: 1) a set of outcomes or competencies that all candidates must attain in order to earn a degree; 2) assessment tools designed to determine candidate competencies; and 3) a problem-based, individualized, adaptive curriculum tied to these competencies. Students progress through the curriculum by mastery of the competencies and graduate when they have mastered all of the competencies. The amount of time required will vary from student to student. Students will experience the challenge-based curriculum – based on real problems of practice that new teachers face -- in a blended environment including online, face-to-face, and clinical education.

The Role

The Academy has welcomed a cohort of 10 Design Fellows for the 2017-18 academic year who will co-design the curriculum with Academy and MIT faculty and staff. We seek a highly qualified ELL instructor who can advise and collaborate with the team of Design Fellows in these efforts.

The ELL instructor will be involved in the design of a specific challenge that focuses on the competencies associated with accommodating the needs of English language learners in math and science classrooms. Responsibilities include helping the design team to identify appropriate research resources; supporting the team as they create learning experiences that will prepare teacher candidates for the summative challenge; and working with the learning designer to establish rubrics to assess mastery.

The ELL instructor also will consult with the Design Fellows and faculty/staff design team to help integrate knowledge of ELL pedagogy throughout the curriculum, including learning experiences and challenges.

Work Hours

Hours are flexible and will be decided in collaboration with the chosen candidate. We welcome applicants with availability in the remaining months of the spring 2018 academic year as well as the summer.

Qualifications and Compensation

Certification in ESL and minimum of 3-5 years experience teaching at the secondary level. Master's Degree in ESL strongly preferred.

Compensation: The Academy will offer hourly compensation.
